At-home hair services by a professional : How it works
Wondering about in-home or mobile haircut ? How many of you have seen these interrogations or videos where someone (a pro ... or not) explains how to cut you hair at home ?
In the actual health and economic situation, haircutting in your home is a legitimate and common question, unfortunately by necessity most of the time.
Funnily there are only two ways to resolve that : either you give yourself a haircut or let a pro take care of it.
Our opinion is one is a risky option the other a pretty safe one ...
We acknowledge we are not the most objective people regarding the question, but we have some solid points to back our position.

It is pretty easy to imagine. If you would like to have at home haircuts by a professional, you need to find a regular stylist that would expect to come to your house, or you try to find around you a stylist who is already mobile.

Sandton Hairstylist

Whether it's women requiring perm or blow dry services or men in need of a decent haircut in your house, traveling hairstylists are just a call away. Not only are they equipped with the right tools and experience, but are also armed with the energy and fun needed to make every grooming session an enjoyable experience. All they need is a small area to work in. The area must be well aerated and set apart from interferences. The stylists clean the place after they are done with their craft. Even in the Covid 19 times, there are adequate measures taken to ensure safety of both the clients and therapists.

At home hair stylist and barbers traveling to customers' places are not common in the US. It is not inexistent neither. So far most of the time you would ask a local salon if one of their stylists would do it, but the truth is if you were not one of their client already, there is little chance they would accept. Plus there is the equipment question : mobile styling requires a some specific equipment, nothing complicated, but to offer a professional service you must/should have a rolling suitcase to stock you tools, disposable gowns for customers, extension cords for your clipper ...

Wedding Service Wedding hair upstyle

While celebrities strutting down the red carpet might be your go-to source for hairstyle inspo, real weddings are actually the perfect place to start finding snapshots of bridal hairdos. Nothing takes our breath away quite like a stunning bride beaming on her own special day. And who better to look to for some bridal style inspiration, especially when it comes to the ultimate finishing touch—your wedding hairstyle.

At Home Hairstylist for Senior citizens

Mobile hair stylists are well adapted for seniors or homebound persons
Whether old or young, all of us enjoy looking at our best. Sadly, seniors and people facing mobility challenges have difficulties getting hair and beard trim as often as we do. Even for seniors without mobility issues, visiting a salon may not be a very appealing idea. The good news is that we have a professional mobile barber and stylist to attend to our seniors at the comfort of their homes.

Besides the convenience that mobile hairstylists provide for senior citizens, they are well adapted to senior clients' unique needs. Age comes with diverse needs such as a thinning hair, blocked hairlines and balding. Getting the right hairstyle is not only refreshing but enhances our image as well as boosting confidence. Seniors need individual attention and customized services. Mobile hairdressers are well versed in the unique needs of seniors and people with mobility challenges. The therapists not only groom but also provide the care and compassion that is needed to lift their clients' spirits.
