PROFILE

Tasyam Govender has experience in working on a wide range of spatial planning projects and land use management applications. His strengths lie in writing; mapping and the production of other project graphics; spatial and non-spatial research; analytical and evaluative work; and synthesis. With a background in architecture, he is adept at concept development; using his creative skills together with his planning knowledge to determine the overall development potential of sites, including determining appropriate zonings, land uses and bulk for properties. He is also skilled in project co-ordination, and managing large, multidisciplinary professional teams. He is a registered Professional Planner with the South African Council for Planners.
