

Best seat in the house!

by OLIVIA RYAN

IT was a 'lightbulb' moment which led Louth woman Lorraine McCarthy to a new career as a family celebrant.

The Ardee native is set to appear on RTE Nationwide next week as the lead celebrant at a wedding in the Woodside Chapel, Castlebellingham.

'Nationwide came to film a ceremony in the beautiful surroundings at Woodside Chapel for a special programme they are broadcasting next week.'

sister Eimear and her new husband Kieran, who had already had a church wedding in Spain.

'I always had an interest in the wedding world, and even thought about working as a wedding planner,' Lorraine told the Argus.

'But our son was still very young, and needed help with his schooling, so I put my dream job on hold for years.'

'My light bulb moment happened whilst on a road trip with my husband when I heard a guy on the radio mention that he was a wedding celebrant,' she recalls.

'It just happened that the timing was perfect - our son was in his final year at school, and I would have the opportunity to go for it.'

'I researched the different options available and enrolled the following week to do an interview for the course in Dublin and the rest as they say is history!'

celebrant and a member of the Irish Celebrants Association, Lorraine says her work takes her to the 'very heart of a couple's special day.'

'I always says that I have the best seat in the house! There is so much joy and love, as each couple can design their day exactly the way they want it.'

Lorraine also works as a celebrant for funerals and cremation ceremonies, and life landmarks such as 'coming of age' events, and other family gatherings.

Lorraine will appear on RTE 1 Nationwide on Wednesday next, January 3rd at 7pm.

De La Salle Strictly

THE contestants signed up for the De la Salle College Strictly Come Dancing fund-raiser have started rehearsing for the competition which takes in the Carrickdale Hotel on January 20th.

This is the first major fund raiser organised by the school in over thirty years and speaking at the launch before Christmas, Principal Patricia O'Leary said she is very optimistic that it will be a great success. Teachers, staff, parents and past pupils have answered the call to dance, and under the guidance of Alicia Grills have started the rehearsals

The main sponsor of the event is Anchor Tours and the school is very grateful for their generous contribution. The show will take place in the Carrickdale Hotel on January 20th at 8.00pm. Tickets are on sale and are available from the school office.
