UK FUTURE TECHNOLOGIES

UKFutureTec are continually in sync with our customer's demands for niche key skills, thus our focus is to develop a talent pipeline of STEM academics with expert industry knowledge. Our methodology is to network with the brightest talent from across the globe for career opportunities in the UK, thus ensuring our customers receive a wider spectrum of quality candidates.

STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP

With over 30 year's industry experience, UKFutureTec are perfectly placed to offer our customers a long-term strategic partnership, which we believe is mutually beneficial when understanding critical elements of the hiring process. Our consultancy specialise in the provisions of graduates, professional hires, mid-level management to senior executives.

Is your internal hiring process absorbing your time, struggling to find the right talent or proving to be an expensive task, then why not transfer all or part of your recruitment process to us?

UKFutureTec Outsourcing works in partnership and integrates within your growing business. We work closely with you onsite to understand your methodologies, ethos and culture to ensure we deliver an effective and quality talent search for people who will enhance and position your organisation for success.

EMPLOYER BRANDING

We promote Your brand to talented people

TALENT IS THE KEY

Businesses need people. Not just any people, but talented people! Despite artificial intelligence technologies continually revolutionising innovation, nevertheless it is people who have to come up with the vision and the ideas to move organisations forward.

We understand that a bad recruitment strategy can be detrimental to the employer's brand and consequently result in loss of business and revenue. Thus, with our experience and expert knowledge of the UK recruitment marketplace, we are perfectly aligned to implement a talent acquisition plan for your hiring needs.

According to the UK Commission for Employment & Skills, 43% of science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) vacancies are hard to fill. This is mainly down to a shortage of applicants with the required skills and experience.

57% of SME UK Tech firms said "they felt there is a skills shortage within their sector and struggling to obtain talent with core skills in Science, Technology & Engineering."

The competition for the most able STEM professionals is tough, hence the 'war for talent' descriptor increasingly used in recent years. Consequently, this has emphasised the tough times that UK organisations have been facing in their attempt to recruit top-class talent with core skills in Science, Technology and Engineering.

Our solution is to proactively engage in a comprehensive candidate advertising campaign and tap into the global STEM talent pool for UK High-Tech career opportunities.*
