

Can you spare 2 mins to answer the three questions below?

- Is your office full of old documents?
- Has it sat there taking up space?
- Do you even need it anymore or can you lead the way in making your office a greener environment?

What if I told you that there was a company that could help with the three points above?

- Who could safely and securely store any documents you have to keep in a location near to your office, should you need to get it back at any time? What if I told you that they use plastic boxes which can hold upto 20% more in them, then the leading competitors, that they have the only GDPR product on the UK market for document storage and come with their own tamper proof seals so you have peace of mind in knowing that the items are 100% safe at all times.
- What if I told you, there is a company who can look at securely scanning your documents and could then destroy any un-needed documents freeing up space and helping your department go 'green'. Finally, once destroyed they would present you with a destruction certificate as proof those documents no longer exist.
- Whose systems and process make the whole thing from start to finish easy, hassle free and simple to use.

NOW FOR THE FINAL PIECE OF NEWS... (and keep this to yourself!!!)
