Reservation

Just as the ChefOnline online ordering system allows customers to order food quickly and easily, our reservations system allows customers to quickly and easily reserve restaurant tables. Instant notification will be sent via SMS or email when the customer's table is ready.

Control Panel

Our control panel provides restaurant owners with one easy to use interface that allows them to view sales information, respond to customer feedback, plan and post promotions, and create and edit new content. The control panel also offers multilayer security, so that employees can be given rights according to their job responsibilities.

Reviews

Following an online order, customers will receive an email requesting them to leave a review. Reviews are passed on to the restaurant owner for approval before posting. Owners are also able to contact customers to address any issues that have been mentioned as part of a review.
