TIMBER FRAME AND ROOF TRUSS MANUFACTURE

Timber Frame – commonly known as an off-site construction process. Timber frame is the fastest growing modern methods of construction, chosen by an ever-growing number of construction and development companies..

At Evergreen Timber Frame we have the ability to design, manufacture and erect timber frames kits for the building and recreational industry, including complex roof designs. Our comprehensive portfolio also includes log cabins for holiday escapes and bespoke homes for private clients.

With our understanding of how using timber frame in building offers various aesthetic and structural benefits to open plan designs, allows for complete enclosure of high levels of insulation for energy efficiency, which allows for rapid on site erection. It is easy to see why our timber frame houses are becoming the popular way to build the modern home. Our pre-fitting allows quality control monitoring to ensure precise alignment and ease for construction on site. The generally larger spaces between the frames enable greater flexibility with the placement of windows and doors which avoids weakening of structural integrity and the need for heavy lintels.

With our bespoke manufacturing plant, fully automated machinery and wealth of experience within both construction and timber frame, we are able to produce whole house packages with great efficiency and to the best quality and cost effective price.

We can accommodate bespoke truss design to explore the most efficient and structurally secure roof construction for your build.

As a group we can design, build, fabricate and complete your whole building project making Evergreen your total construction solution.
